"To Keep Our Memories Green"

We Proudly Present the Nineteen Fifty-Two

ILLIWOCO

FOREWORD

MEMORIES are precious things. From our babyhood we store them away. At first it was a favorite doll; what did we care if her nose was chipped and her hair was pulled out? We had dragged her by one leg until she had become a part of us. Then we came to an autograph book. Looking at the childish scrawl of "Roses are red, violets are blue," we wonder who Tommy Jones was. The big events that took place concerned circuses and new puppies, not boys. Gradually under the watchful eyes of our parents we entered high school. We pull out a dusty scrap book. Here we find a very dried-up gardenia that was crushed and sniffed so many times that we thought we would always remember its fragrance. Out fall clippings of that special football hero. He looks a little too tall and a little too thin now. We wonder what ever became of him. A folder of graduation memories full of calling cards tumbles to the floor and college life begins. Our freshman badge looks a little tattered, not to mention that cherished bit of snipped off green ribbon. Carefully scotch-taped down is THAT dance program. All weekend we seemed to glow at the mere hint of his name. Our society bid that took so long to come to us is taped next to it. Memories of that wait in our room come rushing back. With them come many more. Our class project . . . stage fright seemed to hold us in its grip. How on earth could actresses stand it! Last of all our eye is caught by an ILLIWOCO. We leaf through its pages . . . faces of our classmates appear and we are in our senior drapes. So we are out of college and we look at a page that reads "Keep Our Memories Green." They will always be green. We want to remember them all for someday when a daughter asks us to tell her about college we will relive them for her. She may not think they are very important and they aren't really. It is just that we are sentimental about our struggle to grow up. It seems so painful at times, but we wouldn't trade a second of those wonderful years we spent collecting spare memories.

UR CAMPUS

The deep green leaves that flutter over our heads seem to say "hello!" The elm trees stand, still clothed in the verdant color of late summer, and look down on the chattering, laughing girls. Then slowly without any warning except for maybe a slight nip in the air, the leaves turn to pure gold. We awaken one morning to find our campus looking like an illustration for an autumn issue of NATURE MAGAZINE. When hurrying from class to class, from dinner to date, or even to a movie with the girls, crackling leaves are under foot. When grey skies look through the jet black arms of our guardians we find instead of the crunch of fallen leaves, the soft hush of snow. The red brick buildings stand out in contrast to the whiteness. We find ourselves humming Christmas carols as we study. The months pass. We are told to keep off the grass. The grass looks like a sea of mud, but we stay off. A haze seems to be hanging in the air turning even the smallest branch into a pattern of lacy chartreuse. As we walk to and fro we look at the returned robin and the tiny straight shoots of the crocus. A roof of emerald reveals itself now and seems to protect us. The buildings we have for nine months called home seem a little sad to bid us God-speed as we all leave our campus.

"OUR ADMINISTRATION"

President and Mrs. Clarence P. McClelland

All noble phrases have been spent in praise of President C. P. McClelland and his service to MacMurray College. Little more can be written to express a gratitude too great for words a silent tribute conceived with each thought of MacMurray. Yet our deepest appreciation can never be extended too often. In this, the McClellands' last year at MacMurray, we are not so sorry to see them leave us as we are thankful to have had them with us for the past twenty-seven years. They have given of themselves to better MacMurray.

Dean Dysinger

Dean of the College and director of personnel since 1940, Dr. Wendell S. Dysinger guides us in our academic life. As an inspirational force he has gained the admiration of all MacMurray students. In addition to his administrative duties, he lectures to upperclass students and to students who are taking graduate work in the department of psychology.

Dean Hawkins

Mrs. Roma N. Hawkins has a full schedule as Dean of Students, counselor of half the student body, Students Association, Y.W.C.A., Fire Captain, and Junior Class. She still finds time to supervise the campus societies, the "Special Day" programs, and the social life of the campus. To add to her busy activities Dean Hawkins lectures to the orientation classes and teaches the Old Testament History in the summer sessions. Mrs. Hawkins is a guiding light of inspiration to all the girls on campus.

Dean Cunningham

Mrs. Marjorie Cunningham as Associate Dean of Students for the past five years leads a busy life. In addition to being Director of Residences and adviser for half of the student body she also serves as adviser for the Sophomore Class. Mrs. Cunningham is general chairman of the dining hall committee and supervises the S.O.S. program and orientation classes. She truly plays a very important role in MacMurray life.

Mr. Brown

Director of Admissions, Mr. W. Justin Brown has helped to make the student's first contact with the college a pleasant one. He approves all applications for admission to MacMurray and supervises the distribution of college literature to prospective students and other interested persons; Mr. Brown also heads the staff of field representatives. His pleasant manner has gained him many friendships throughout the campus.

Mr. Smith

In the capacity of Business Manager, Mr. E. Clarendon Smith controls the maintenance of the buildings. He also has charge of the employment of non-academic personnel in addition to directing financial affairs of the college. He assists the business staff of the ILLIWOCO and represents the administration on the Communications Board. Though his duties are mainly administrative, he maintains close contact with student activities and has gained the admiration of everyone.

"What a large bunny rabbit!"

"Lovely hat, Miss Wilkins."

"Let's all sing like the birdies sing."

Registration day.

"Play it purty, Joe."

GRADUATE STUDENTS

The MacMurray division of graduate work includes work in the department of psychology and physical education for which the college grants degrees of Master of Arts and Master of Science. Dr. H. M. Halverson is head of the graduate school while Dr. Elizabeth Rearick directs the work of the P.E. graduate students.

Members of the P.E. group have many activities. Miss Jane Fisk is a graduate of the University of Idaho; Miss Minnie Neal, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; Miss Caroll Spann, Indiana University; and Mrs. Evelyn Lawler Lewis, a potential 1952 Olympics participant, graduated from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

Mrs. Alleen Vinyard and Mr. Warren Stewart are both students in the field of psychology. Mrs. Vinyard received her Bachelor of Arts from the University of Kentucky and Mr. Stewart received his degree from Western Illinois State Teachers College.

HOUSE MOTHERS

Our "Mothers away from home" are what the girls at Mac so fondly call the five house mothers. They not only supervise our dormitory life but are also willing sources of guidance and counsel. The freshmen have two house mothers: Mrs. Mabel Smith on second Main and Mrs. Fanny Anderson on third Main. This is Mrs. Smith's eleventh year on campus and Mrs. Anderson has been a member of the Mac family for three years. Besides her duties as house mother, Mrs. Anderson is also freshman class adviser. This year there is one assistant house mother in Main Hall, Miss Jean Thompson. Jean is a senior at MacMurray. The house mother in Jane Hall is Mrs. Lillian Blount. For six years the sophomores have been under the jurisdiction of Mrs. Blount. Mrs. Florence Baylis has been known for nine years as "Mother B" to her girls in Kathryn Hall. The girls in Rutledge Hall are under the guidance of Mrs. Myrtle Walraven. Besides these duties Mrs. Walraven also serves as director of Student Employment.

Working very closely with the girls the housemothers can always be relied on as avid instigators of class functions. After leaving college the girls often keep in close contact with their college mothers.

SENIOR CLASS

With the swirl of crisp, multicolored autumn leaves the important events began which were to leave this year impressed in the memories of each senior girl.

October thirtieth found the chapel aisle lined with cheery-faced sophomores all dressed in white to honor their sister class. That day the seniors renewed the long awaited and cherished traditions: their first time to sing "Mammy Moon" and the first day to wear their distinguished caps and gowns. For the first time three of the top ranking seniors, Kaye Mathers Denning, Jeanette Hofsommer and Susan LaPierre, were presented to the faculty and student body as members of the MacMurray College Honor Society.

November activities were opened with the Senior Tea which had been carefully planned by Sally Brown. Seniors, their parents, and faculty members mingled in the pleasant atmosphere of Rutledge lounge.

It was not long until the carefully guarded top secret was out. It was the fateful morning of November fourteenth when seniors stumbled down the Rutledge stairs and boarded the St. Louis bound busses to enjoy senior cut day.

Thanksgiving week-end started with the senior serenade on Thanksgiving morning. The Crystal Ball was the paramount event of the week-end. In a cloud of net, velvet, and faille, Queen June Erickson Carlson, attendants, Rosemary Stark and Suzanne Bolle; Senior class president, Yvonne Mason, and dance chairman, Jayne Bradley, were honored.

With the spring came the "Green Grass for Commencement" campaign.

Dean Hawkins and Dean Cunningham initiated the farewell activities for the departing seniors with an evening party on May tenth.

Amidst the ricochet of bobbing lantern light the Juniors drilled in tribute to the seniors at the Lantern drill and were followed by the presentation of the May Court.

Then the Day of all Days, their day—Commencement.

OUR SENIORS

"Our Seniors" sounds possessive, doesn't it? Well, we feel that way. For three years we have looked up to this class directly above us. As sophomores they initiated us into the traditions of MacMurray. They taught us to love . . . love life? yes . . . the way of honor and loyalty . . . love the campus with its brick buildings and green lawns . . . love learning? yes . . . no matter how we groaned when a blue book and term paper were assigned the same day . . . love friends? yes . . . for here at MacMurray we learned the value of a true friend and the respect and pride that goes with friendship . . . yes, they taught us to love. As juniors they were suddenly upperclassmen. We thought of ourselves as grown up for we were no longer freshmen, but they had acquired a certain air about them. Perhaps it was because they realized time was going too fast. Why, next year they would be the seniors! We found ourselves interested in the societies. Which one shall we join? We gathered in corners wondering and hoping until we found ourselves dressed in that color we were so proud to wear. For many reasons we were proud, the girls, the ideals, the friendships. One day in class meeting we were taught the junior song. It sounded strange for us to be singing the junior song that had issued so gladly from THEIR throats. But no, they were seniors. They looked odd in caps and gowns. We began to realize what we were losing when they were formally recognized as seniors. They sang "Mammy Moon" and we got misty-eyed watching that circle of familiar faces. In a few more months those faces would scatter, some taking their places in business, some in the home and some in another college for further education. On a senior corner wall names of the class of 1952 will be written. Each name will recall to mind a particular girl, a senior girl . . . That class we could never repay for teaching us to live up to the motto "Knowledge, Faith and Service."

JUNIOR CLASS

In September of 1951 the Juniors burst through the calm atmosphere that had surrounded Kathryn Hall during the summer to be heartily welcomed by Mother "B." Classes began, time passed with unbelievable speed, and at a Thursday class meeting the Seniors gave the Juniors their class song. Then suddenly it was Senior Cut Day, and the Juniors had the time of their lives busily bustling around the Senior Corner, singing Senior songs, and generally enjoying themselves. The days passed and before they knew it, December had moved around and with it a wonderful dorm Christmas party given on the eve of vacation by Kathryn's Freshmen.

Back from the holidays the class plunged into work on the Junior Prom, which was held February 9 in McClelland Hall and was considered a great success, thanks to the combined efforts of the juniors, the weather, Mrs. Hawkins, Ann Noonan, the chairman, and those who attended. February also saw the juniors dressing up for the President's luncheon . . . given for many years by Dr. and Mrs. McClelland for the Junior Class. Freshman Recognition, directed by Barbara Gerhardt, followed with the Chapel service, the dinner, and later the juniors' serenade to their sister class. February turned out to be one of the busiest months of the year when the Freshman coffees started the week after Recognition. Directed by Maravene Ryan, they were held every Wednesday night for several months with freshmen and juniors joining in Kathryn's large smoker for coffee, doughnuts, and singing. Then Dad's Day arrived, signaling the beginning of spring vacation.

The first day of April saw everyone back in Jacksonville and as the weather grew warmer, the juniors began to practice for the beautiful annual Lantern Drill, directed by Melissa Cordera. After seeing the seniors safely through graduation, the juniors could rest and for a moment look back over the year filled with wonderful memories.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The old traditions of "Mac" were carried out by a new and efficient Sophomore Class. With their freshman year in the past the members realized their new status meant a more serious approach to student activities.

The year began with the initiation of the freshmen. The Initiation Committee was under the leadership of Alice Cox assisted by Marty Lee, Emma Jo Rogers, Kay Van Dyke and Bev Potter. "Great Day" was the theme for the last day and sheets, home-made wings, harps, and painted faces were the costumes; and there were plenty of "goodies" for the upper-classmen. The freshmen whose birthdays fell on a Saint's Day were chosen to be "Gluh Girls." There were 20 in all and they wore the traditional red and green with their hair in numerous braids.

Instead of giving a dance for the freshmen after initiation the sophomores cooperated in planning the Harvest Holiday festivities with Ruth Keyes and Ann Kraft as co-chairmen. The week-end activities included formal and informal dances, a hayride, a picnic, and Sunday noon tabel parties.

In November Joan Drew directed the preparations for Senior Recognition Day. In the morning the Recognition Service was held in Annie Merner Chapel, at dinner there were table parties, and in the evening the sophomores serenaded their sister class. Also in November thirty sophomores were chosen to form the honor line for the Senior Ball Queen.

The class project "Syncopated Seasons" musically described the months of the year. It was written and directed by Margaret Morrison who found much hidden talent in the class and used it to make the show a success.

"Mei San" was the title for the Sophomore Dance, held on March 8 in McClelland Hall. Joan Louden acted as chairman.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Never will the class of 1955 hear the strains of "Great Day" without its bringing back memories both sad and gay of initiation days. The traditional green ribbons were worn while initiation activities progressed. Never a more "heavenly" group of freshmen walked the campus than on October 20, the final initiation day, as they portrayed angels complete from harp to halo. The ribbons burned and the group was welcomed to our MacMurray.

From the day of arrival there was the bustle of confusion as counselors met their counselees, and roommates got better acquainted. There were examinations, registration and orientation, as freshmen began to wonder if they would ever have a free moment. Classes got under way and the newcomers settled down to the routine of college life.

Under the chairmanship of Connie Brand the freshmen gathered together to make the decorations for the Thanksgiving tables. Those gave the final touch to the dining hall with the air of festivity as well as thankfulness.

The freshman class came forward to take the honors for the campus Community Chest Drive. The class was proud of Cathy Roese, its representative.

A perfect foursome of Ann Baker, Ann Korsmeyer, Margaret Harrison, and Virginia Morton planned Recognition Day for their sister class of juniors, complete with table parties and a serenade.

Warm weather mixed with laughter and gaiety provided a background for the major event of the year, the Freshman Dance on April 26. The year was a full and busy one for the class and the good times and new friendships made will never be forgotten.

BOOK III

"OUR ORGANIZATIONS"

First row: Dorothy Carl, Margot Keltner, Allison Mahan, Ann Noonan.
Second row: Mary Ann Melvin, Patty Lawrence, Joan Noble, G. R. Halliburton, Muriel Shennan, Virginia Hall, Joan Drew, Cheryl Kupper.

STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Margot Keltner, S. A. President

The Mac family . . . self-government . . . the honor code . . . all these take on deeper meaning through Students Association. A campus-wide organization, Students Association has three representative bodies. The Legislative Board is a law-making organization, the Honor Council concerns itself with academic infringements, while the Judicial Board takes charge of problems that arise concerning social life on campus.

The S. A. is a vital force in every phase of college life. In addition to its above-mentioned functions it sponsors the Student Aid Fund which gives necessary finances to foreign students. The Student Orientation Service operates through S. A. During the Christmas season the S. A. donates the trees for all the dormitory lounges and presents gifts to all the college employees. It also represents the student body by sending birthday greetings to members of the administration. Many smoker supplies and miscellaneous dormitory needs are provided by the S. A.

Throughout the school year the cooperation of the students with the S. A. makes democratic living a reality.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Each student on the MacMurray campus is a member of the Young Women's Christian Association. A twelve-member cabinet led the organization throughout the school year of 1951-1952.

In September the Y.W.C.A. conducted the first Chapel service and an all-school sock party; and before Halloween the freshmen carved pumpkins for children at the School for the Deaf.

Late in November Thanksgiving baskets were prepared and sent to needy Jacksonville families. The traditional Thanksgiving Day tea dance was held and before vacation the student body enjoyed the annual Christmas caroling.

During the first part of February the movie, "One God, The Ways We Worship Him," was presented, followed by "Heart Sister Week."

At Easter time the Y.W.C.A. sponsored a party for the children of the Blind School. After a successful year the Y.W. had a breakfast at the Dunlap Hotel for the present and the incoming cabinet members.

Marilyn Neary, Y.W.C.A. President

First row: Emma Jo Rodgers, Sue Schulze, Ann Kraft, Jane McNeil.
Second row: Ann Noonan, Wilma Spriggs, Carolyn Bone, Muriel Shennan, Susan LaPierre, Dr. Blair, Mary Helen Potter, Carolyn Ryberg.

CAMPUS CHRISTIAN COUNCIL

Knowledge, faith, and service—the motto by which we live. Faith, the second part of that motto, is taught and exemplified by the activities of the Campus Christian Council. Every Monday and Wednesday night vesper services are held in all the dormitories. Moments of meditation interspersed with soft music and readings in the quiet candlelit atmosphere give our hearts and minds a chance to reunite and think of higher things. The girls take turns in presenting these services which are prepared under the direction of Ann Noonan.

Each year the Campus Christian Council sponsors Religious Emphasis Week,—a three-day period, during which a visiting minister is brought to the campus to talk to us during Chapel services, in small discussion groups, or in private conferences. "WHY" was the theme this year and Dr. Luther Stine, an active leader in the Presbyterian church in Oak Park, Illinois, was the guest speaker.

In January the Campus Christian Council entertained the Y.W.C.A. board and the ministers of Jacksonville at a coffee in an effort to further cooperation between students and their local church homes.

Susan LaPierre was the president of the MacMurray Campus Christian Council and Sue Schulze served as secretary-treasurer. Dr. McKendree M. Blair sponsored the group.

First row: Marilyn Goldring, Nancy Walsh, Joan Turner, Maryann Satterlee, Rosemary Prinsze, Janet French.

SCRIBBLERS CLUB

"Look in thy heart and write" is the motto of the Scribblers' Club, the campus creative writing club which meets weekly to criticize the members' own literary attempts under the direction of Dr. Ruth Rose. The purpose of the Scribblers is to increase the interest in and to encourage the continued work in creative writing by the students.

Tryouts were held at the beginning of each semester. New members posted their original poems on the trees around campus, and proudly wore their large feathers, symbols of Scribblers' initiation.

The open meeting, under the direction of Marjorie Tubbs, was presented at the Little Theater the first of March. Each member read one or two of her selections. Again in the spring, Scribblers' Club took charge of the all-campus creative writing contest, Inkspirations.

Convinced that MacMurray needs a permanent literary magazine, members of the Scribblers' Club have turned their efforts toward the support of such a project. The literary magazine, published in the spring, was composed of contributions from all students, which also included articles on the various aspects of college life.

JACKSONVILLE CLUB

A group of thirty girls darts hurriedly from school to home, and back to school. This group of girls is the Jacksonville Club, more commonly known as the "town girls." Dr. Elsa P. Kimball has been the guide and adviser to the group since 1938, the date of the club's organization with a constitution.

The goals of the club are three-fold: to promote good will, unity, and interest in college affairs among its members, to bring together the resident students of MacMurray and the townspeople, and to keep in contact with the Jacksonville Club alumnae.

The program of the Jacksonville Club opened in October with installation of the club officers following a supper meeting. Supper meetings are held twice a month. The main event of the first semester was the annual initiation of the new members. After many exciting activities the new girls were welcomed to a rollicking party given by the old members.

The next event was a Christmas party, followed by a bake sale the second week in February. The students on campus enjoyed home-made cakes, cookies, candies, etc. February 23 was the date for the party at the P.E. cabin for High School Seniors and their dates

Betty Breyding acted as president this year with Betty Bishop serving as vice-president, Betty Morris serving as secretary, Nancy Carver as treasurer, Mary Ann Gibbs, publicity chairman, and Liz Caldwell, keeper of the archives. Jo Mansfield served as R.A. representative while Pat Kennedy held the position of program chairman.

First row: Connie Andreen, Ruth Hoare, Darlene Detuncq, Joanne Wandschneider, Beatrice Dempster, RoseAnn Rogers, Shirley Wilson, Joan Hamilton.

A. C. E.

A.C.E., an organization with a membership of eighty-five, is a branch of the National Association of Childhood Education. The main purpose of the association is the promotion of adequate educational facilities and opportunities for young children. The membership of the club is composed of students majoring in kindergarten-primary school education. The association is voluntary and the members consider it a privilege to belong.

First semester A.C.E. was under the leadership of Dot Boise. The year's events were composed of an ice cream social, initiation of new members, a demonstration of art by Miss Schoedsack, a visit to the Blind School, the annual Christmas Party for the Blind, and a talk by Reverend Collins, on "The Church and the Child." He discussed the new teaching trends for children in Sunday lessons, and the attempts to co-ordinate the child at church and the child at home.

Second semester found the association under the leadership of Jo Ann Venard. The kindergarten operetta was presented March 12 at the Little Theatre. A committee of members wrote the script. Barbara Abbott directed the production. The senior breakfast took place on May 4 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Galloway.

Aiding the presidents during the year were Ann Kraft, vice-president; Beverly Davis, secretary; and Mary Lou Thielking, treasurer. The club's adviser was Miss Ellen Nudd.

The members enjoyed their year of social and educational activities. The membership increased by almost thirty girls in '51-'52 and A.C.E. hopes to continue this progress in the future.

"The heart of the world is in the home; the heart of the home is in the woman" was the theme of Province VII workshop. To live up to this motto thirty-nine girls on our campus were busy learning to be good wives and mothers as well as teachers. Members of the Home Economics Club were taking courses ranging from foods to home furnishings. The club advisers were Miss Mate Giddings and Miss Ida Ingalls. The year's officers were Donna Summers, president; Jean Thompson, vice-president; Joan Spodnyak, secretary; Margaret Austbo, treasurer; DeLora Muir, publicity chairman; and Barbara Gerhardt and Georgia Halliburton, program chairmen.

To acquaint old members with the new a mixer was held in Kathryn Smoker October ninth. Monday, December third, found twenty-four new members received into full membership of the club at a candlelight ceremony..

A week before Christmas, boxes for old clothes appeared in all the dorms. A large box of clothes was taken to the welfare office to be distributed as Christmas gifts. In January the club endeavored to do something for the campus as a whole by sponsoring Thursday night table parties in the dining hall for the presidents of all the organizations on campus.

Then came the highlight of the club year, the annual Baked Bean Supper. Following the supper a very interesting program about Towle Silver was presented. Also during the month of February Joan Spodnyak, Avis McCutchan, and Marilyn Satorius attended Province VII Workshop in Chicago.

In March the members listened to a group of foreign students discuss topics of current interest. In April high school girls who were members of FHA chapters in surrounding towns came to campus for the Spring Rally.

Work and fun make well-rounded women who will someday be "The heart of the home."

First row: Jayne Moore, Nancy Carver, Jacquie Bailey, Gloria Rake, Dorothy Graves, Barbara Fill, Barbara Wilson, Wilda Field.

ART STUDENTS' LEAGUE

"The purpose of the Art Students' League of MacMurray College is to promote interest in the visual arts among the faculty and students of the College."

With this purpose in mind the Board of Directors, Ruth Dryden, president, and Joan Louden, secretary-treasurer, formulated a plan for the year which included workshops, lectures, trips to galleries, discussions, exhibits, and projects.

And so A.S.L. set out to re-educate the faculty and students in their understanding of art. Various exhibitions were brought to the campus. In December there was an exhibit of Contemporary Sculpture in the Pfeiffer Library and Mr. Guy lectured on Contemporary Art; this was followed by the Collection of Biblical Illustrations from the museum of Modern Art.

January brought a print collection of Masters both old and new which was hung in Main Social Room, where Mrs. Cleeland gave a gallery talk.

Activities for the year included a trip to St. Louis in February, another to see the student exhibits in March, and a trip to Chicago in April to see Matisse and Cézanne exhibitions.

In October A.S.L. sold Japanese prints; in December, Christmas cards, and in January, colored prints and silk scarves with that "hand-painted look."

If for no other reason, the Art Students League will always be remembered by faculty and students as the Club that always had "something to sell."

ILLIWOCO EDITORIAL STAFF

Moans and groans have been heard all year from the little room off Kathryn smoker where the 1952 ILLIWOCO was born. First it was organized and presided over by the Editor-in-Chief, Carey Shands. The pictures came back via the "Green Beetle," and Janet Capsel, assistant editor, would reduce or enlarge them proportionately with some mysterious working with a ruler. Phyllis Gruner took care of the task of index editor by trotting from sitting to sitting and gathering names and places of the girls in each club. Melissa Cordera all this time was tracking down the sports items to be written up in the illustrious book. Photographer Dryden, camera in hand, tried to get those "action shots." Under the able fingers of Barbara Abbott, the copywriter, the copy was organized to be checked by Dean Hawkins. In March the precious dummy was taken to Decatur and deposited in the hands of the printer with a sigh of relief. In May it came back to be distributed to the student body.

ILLIWOCO BUSINESS STAFF

It was the duty of the 1952 ILLIWOCO business staff to finance the various aspects of producing our yearbook. The members of the staff led by Jerrie Wood, business manager, and her assistant, Pat Holle, sold advertisements to local merchants and handled student fees and organization assessments in order to finance the ILLIWOCO. It was also the responsibility of the business staff to make payment for all expenditures incurred for photography, engraving, printing covers, and other costs, as well as handle the balancing of income and expenditures.

GREETINGS EDITORIAL STAFF

Joan Turner, editor.

Planning for each weekly issue of the GREETINGS begins on Monday at the staff meeting held in the new GREETINGS office in Kathryn Hall. It is then that the editor-in-chief assigns news stories and features to the reporters.

Few realize all the work put into each publication of the GREETINGS. The work includes hurrying to meet deadlines and getting information and assignments to the reporters. The last of the toil is done in the JOURNAL-COURIER building. Among the duties are copy reading, wording headlines, typing, and planning the dummy.

The staff has a feeling of satisfaction which comes from knowing that it has lived up to the GREETINGS policy of bringing the news to the students.

GREETINGS BUSINESS STAFF

"Is there any dummy paper?" "Where are the rest of the ads?" "I suppose we could squeeze out another six-page issue from our budget!" These are but a few of many remarks one might hear if she were in Kathryn Hall on any Wednesday night, for that was the night to get the ads ready for the Saturday paper. The business side of the GREETINGS also includes bookkeeping, advertising, contracts, circulation and exchange.

Each member of the staff had a particular job she was responsible for—whether it was stuffing papers in mail boxes, arguing with business managers to have their ads in on time, or taking care of sending copies out to our subscribers.

Patricia Kowalski, acting as business manager, took care of finances. Marianne McCarty was advertising manager, Jane Aistrope served as circulation manager, and Ann Baker acted as exchange manager.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Sue Schulze, President of I.R.C.

The International Relations Club has this year attempted further to carry out its avowed aim to develop better understanding and appreciation of world affairs among its members.

An integral element of the club has been its foreign members, who have been able to help the club gain an insight into the understanding of their respective countries.

The monthly meetings included a film taken in Europe by Dr. Summers, a local dentist, whose commentary on his trip was additionally informative; a Christmas party which featured Wanda Yi, Bessie Tan, and Colette Aubaile who described the Christmas festivities in Korea, Singapore, and France; a film strip on Korea, its history and people; a discussion program presented over W.M.M.C.; and the club-sponsored sale of United Nations cookbooks.

Sue Schulze was I.R.C.'s president; Beverly Carr, vice-president; Sue Fiolek, secretary-treasurer; Bonnie Stone, publicity head, and Peggy Cook, program chairman. These girls led the club to attain the goal that was established at the beginning of the year.

First row: Kaye Denning, Mr. Hansen, Jean McConahay, Jane Lawrence.

W. M. M. C.

Over WMMC disc jokey shows and request programs are designed for those girls who wish to relax to listen to their favorite recordings. Also there are programs such as the discussion show "Let's Talk It Over," a weekly "Woman's" show, "The College Shop," and a weekly give-away program, "Musical Surprise." In the area of news, WMMC started a weekly UNESCO news coverage as well as a news analysis program, "As I See It," presented by Dr. Sherwood Eddy once a week during the first semester. A new plan for assembling campus news was begun by uniting the campus newspaper and the WMMC reporters. As a result, the news was carried by WMMC and again presented in the campus newspaper each week.

WMMC operates at a maximum efficiency. The station is on the air from 7:00 p. m. to 10:15 p. m., Monday through Thursday, and on Friday "Operation '54'," a request show taken over by the sophomores, is run from 10:00 p. m. to 12:00 midnight. Saturday's schedule runs from 3:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. "Operation '55' ", taken over by the freshman societies, is not concerned only with a request show but also includes a special variety show presented by Charles Bennett, the one male member of the staff, and a give-away program, "Cigarette Time," sponsored by Philip Morris Cigarettes.

MAC PLAYERS

First row: Joan Noble, Beverly Davis, JoAnn Winstead, Dorothy Boise, Jo Ann Venard.

Second row: Jane Lawrence, Maryann Satterlee, Emma Jo Rodgers, Sarah Brown, Dr. Holcombe, Jo Hoover, Beverly Potter, Pat Kowalski, Ann Kraft.

N. C. P. AND MAC PLAYERS

There are two dramatic groups on the MacMurray campus, the Mac Players for the beginners in the theater and N.C.P. for the experienced few.

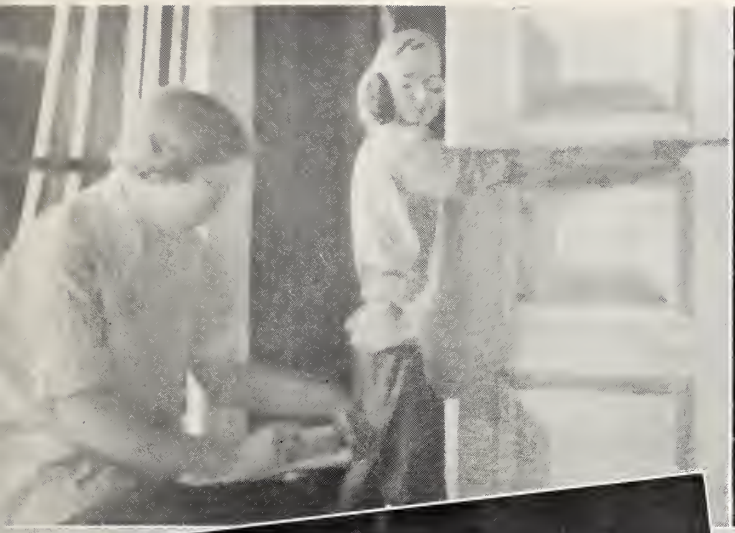

The Mac Players formally opened the Little Theatre with an Open House in September. All students interested in any phase of the theater were invited to attend. Various Mac Players took part in the theater productions, both acting and working behind the scenes. This year different groups of the Players presented plays in the surrounding communities.

Mac Players membership is based on the point system. Students receive points for acting, working backstage on costuming, lighting, properties and makeup, and taking part in other theater activities.

JoAnn Winstead presided over the group, Jo Noble carried out the duties of vice-president and Jo Ann Venard acted as secretary-treasurer. Dr. Holcombe was the sponsor.

The N.C.P. is Chapter 37 of the National Collegiate Players, a group of drama students from colleges and universities in all parts of the United States. Membership is based on the point system which is uniform in all N.C.P. organizations.

Both the National Collegiate Players and the Mac Players enjoyed a year of hard work and genial fellowship.

CHOIR

The MacMurray College Choir is composed of a select number of girls chosen from the three upper classes. Tryouts are held at the beginning of each semester for those who are interested in singing with this group. The girls sing at Chapel services each Tuesday and, among other things, take part in a series of concert tours during the second semester.

The first event in their concert series was a joint concert with the Wabash College Glee Club at Wabash, Indiana, on March 14. On April 18 the men from Wabash arrived to present a concert in Annie Merner Chapel. The second big event began on Friday, May 9, when the choir left Jacksonville and traveled south to present concerts at various high schools in Jerseyville, Alton, and Edwardsville. The following morning they proceeded on their way to St. Louis where they planned to present a radio and perhaps a television show. On Sunday the choir made its appearance at the Second Presbyterian church where it presented special church music. Monday found the choir visiting schools at Anna, Marion, and Mt. Vernon, Illinois. Monday night the Choir returned to MacMurray.

The choir made regular scheduled appearances at other campus functions. Its presentation of "MacMurray, We'll Always Love You" at Club 13 has almost become a tradition. The choir also collaborates with the Madrigal Club in presenting Christmas and Easter Vesper services which are very inspiring to students and townspeople alike.

There are thirty-six voices in the choir. Mr. Henry Busche directs the girls during their daily rehearsals at 5:00 as well as at their public appearances. The president of the group was Yvonne Mason; vice-president and social chairman, Rosemary Stark; secretary-treasurer, Alice Post; publicity chairman, Muriel Shennan; robe mistress, Joan Drew; student director, Susan LaPierre; and Elaine Phelps, accompanist.

MADRIGAL CLUB

The members of the Madrigal Club spend on the average of three hours a week practicing in the Music Hall auditorium. The Madrigal is the all-school glee club and is composed mainly of girls in the freshman class. For the '51-'52 year approximately seventy-five girls participated in the organization and the type of music sung included folk songs, carols, and recent compositions.

In September the officers, Marilyn Barnes, president; Wanda Yi, vice-president; Connie Brand, secretary-treasurer; and Jerol Rhodes and Margaret Harrison, the librarians, planned a picnic at the Cleelands' home. The officers also acted as charming hostesses at their coffee in honor of the Basque dancers in October.

At Christmas Vespers the Madrigal Club joined with the Choir and presented the Chapel audience with a service that will long be remembered. The songsters' interpretation of "Carol of the Bells" especially inspired the audience and made them realize the participants' own enjoyment of the music.

Madrigal again joined forces with the Choir in February at the Lincoln's birthday memorial service. Their lilting rendition of "Dixie" and other selections added a great deal to the program.

Following the Virtuosi di Roma concert the musicians were entertained by the club at a reception in Kathryn smoker. Refreshments were served and the musicians and club members joined forces for the benefit of the other guests.

Spring found the club whirling in activities: the operetta, Dad's Day program, Easter Vespers and another coffee, this time in honor of Carol Brice, contralto. The club closed a successful season with a picnic and the members looked back on a pleasant year and forward to tryouts for the choir.

First row: Priscilla Kishel, Connie Brand, Joan Hamilton, Susan LaPierre, Willa Mitchell, Barbara Schrader, Betty Miller, Marilyn Menchhoff.

BAND

At the first band rehearsal in September '51 the members of the band welcomed Mr. Henry Busche back from a year's leave of absence. The Illinois College and MacMurray bands once again merged their musical talents to get the year's activities under way. The newly elected officers for the year were Betty Miller, president; Marjorie Tubbs, assistant to Mr. Busche; Jeannine Calvert, secretary; Libby Dinius and Betty Helms, set-ups; and Connie Brand and Carolyn Ryberg, librarians.

The band opened its schedule with the traditonal Band Sing on the lawn in front of McClelland Hall on October 18. On October 27 the members packed up their instruments and proceeded to the football field to provide the musical background for the I.C.-Elmhurst game.

Early in November the band provided music for the dedication of the new gymnasium at Illinois College. Again on January 16 the band traveled across town to play for the I.C.-Millikin basketball game.

The band gave a concert at the State Hospital on March 5, and the antics of Marge Tubbs and Mr. Busche provided everyone with hearty chuckles.

With the coming of spring vacation the band worked industriously to provide an appropriate concert for Dad's Day, held March 19 and 20.

At the end of April the band gave an entertaining concert for the students at Illinois School for the Blind.

The band members were hosts and hostesses to some seven hundred Class B high school student at the I.H.S.A. State Solo and Ensemble Contest held May 2 and 3 on MacMurray campus.

First row: Helen Murphy, Carolyn Bennett, Mary Jean Jackson, Marjorie Tubbs.

SWING BAND

For music and entertainment call on the MacMurray Swing Band! It is always available and specializes in all kinds of popular tunes. "Johnson Rag" was the most popular selection the talented group played, and although they presented mostly dance music they were always able and willing to perform novelty numbers.

The organization, sponsored only by the appreciation of the student body and the outstanding talents of the eight members, has been a popular group on campus for the past seven years. However, the Swing Band does not limit its "fascinating rhythm" to campus dances, for the organization manages to play for at least one High School Prom during the year.

This year on campus the Swing Band provided the music for "Harvest Holiday," the annual Y.W.C.A. Sock Party at the beginning of the semester, a dorm dance, "The Wooden Shoe Shuffle," sponsored by the freshman society, Alpha Kappa Sigma, informal dances in the Hub, Club 13, and the traditional Thanksgiving and Dad's Day Tea Dances held in Main Social Room.

This year, too, the organization entertained the patients of the State Hospital with various lively selections. The members especially enjoyed playing for such an appreciative audience.

At second semester the organization incorporated the musical talents of two new pianists —Pat Kennedy and Wilda Fields—to replace Betty Miller, who left at the semester. The members were also glad to welcome Rosemary O'Heren to their group.

The girls in the band agree that the group would not be where it is today without the detailed planning and directing of Marjorie Tubbs.

First row: Betty Bishop, Linda Pearson, Miss Govas, Georgia Rabbe, Signe Ann Wood, Polly Huitt, Virginia Willming, Bette Esser, Pat Holle, Mary Culver, June Dunseth, Ann Mueller.

P. E. CLUB

"Did anyone see about getting the spotlights?" "Did someone collect extension cords, playing cards and lamps?" "Do all freshman majors have blue and white uniforms to wear?" These were the questions heard previous to the most important event on the P.E. calendar, Club 13. Ann Noonan acted as pilot of this memorable event with the help of many hard-working, efficient committees. A night club atmosphere prevailed the entire evening with two talent-filled floor shows, dance contests, and music by the swing band. Two friendly doormen, attired in tails and top hats, welcomed the crowd at McClelland Hall where they spent a very memorable evening on November 10.

The main purpose of Club 13 is to provide finances to maintain the cabin on Lake Maurvisterre. The club is striving to improve the cabin as much as possible so that students will find it a much more enjoyable place. The cabin is the site of many picnics and overnight parties.

The club sponsored a basketball clinic for the surrounding high schools on March 10. The members of the club demonstrated and explained various basketball teachniques. The general purpose of the clinic was to give them a general over-all picture of better basketball.

The Club, composed of those students who are majoring or minoring in physical education, is trying to create a better cooperative spirit among the members. Polly Huitt was president of the club. The other officers were Pat Holle, secretary-treasurer, and Mary Culver, cabin chairman. The group was sponsored by Miss Dorothy Govas.

Nancy Carver, President

Belles Lettres is the oldest college women's literary society in the world with a continuous membership. The members of the society are proud of this distinction.

Norma Froderman was chairman of first semester rushing, which was held October 12 and 13. The actives entertained the rushees at an open house one week before they entertained them informally at "Come Stroll With Me" at the Congregational Church. The actives presented the play "Little Red Riding Hood" at the informal rush party and games were led by Pat Holle. At the banquet, a humorous play was given for the rushees. Rushees received little decorated baskets with colorful handkerchiefs in them as favors and had a bite of the traditional Belles Lettres cake.

The twenty-four pledges were happy to have Pat Holle as their pledge mother. During their initiation period the pledges came to revere the

B.L. motto, "Here we prepare ourselves for active life," the shield, and the yellow rose. The actives were entertained November 19 in Kathryn smoker with "An American in Paris." Marty Lee and Joan Hornbeck shared the responsibilities of organizing the party. After wearing yellow and white for two days and after getting the actives to sign replicas of the B.L. shield, the pledges received their pins on November 29 at formal initiation.

The society planned a cabin party for December 8. Joan Thompson and Pat Holle were elected co-chairmen of the preparations. Pat Kowalski was in charge of presenting to the seniors their gift bracelets bearing the B.L. shield.

Susan LaPierre was elected chairman of the alumnae coffee held February 22. Second semester rushing was held on March 1. "Glass Imaginary" was the theme and Pat Holle did a fine job as rush captain. On March 3 Belles Lettres welcomed Betty Jess, Joan Loudon, Lois Fauerbach, Elynor McFadden, and Marjorie Wiese into the society.

The society decided to be more like the literary society it was originally and a short program was planned each meeting by Priscilla Kishel, Pat Holle and Maryann Satterlee. The programs were enjoyed by all.

The officers of the society this year were Nancy Carver, president; Susan Lugg, vice-president; Yvonne Mason, recording secretary, Beverly Davis, corresponding secretary; Phyllis Gruner, treasurer; Priscilla Kishel, Pat Holle and Maryann Satterlee, program chairmen, and Janet Capsel, keeper of the archives.

The year was terminated with the formal banquet in the Spring. At that time many old society members returned for the festivities and to renew old acquaintances.

Kaye Denning, President

Early in October Cordelia Tucker, rush captain, got fall rushing under way with her Theta Sigma version of "Trio." The first part of the "Trio" took place October 6 at open house to the theme of "Prelude." At the formal rush party October 12 at the Masonic Temple, the rushees were invited to partake in "Adagio," a winter sequence where audience participation was the foremost event. Also Margot Keltner and Rae Carlson presented a skit, "Little Eskimo Hood," and the Theta trio composed of G. R. Halliburton, Betty Miller, and Barbara Abbott sang. The final step in the '51 rushing theme was "Intermezzo," October 13 at the Theta Swiss Lodge, held at the P.E. Cabin.

On October 15 seven proud pledges received their red, gold, and black ribbons to be worn until formal initiation. Then on November 25 in Kathryn Smoker the "Lucky Seven" invited their active sisters to a "so-called" high class speakeasy where entertainment, refreshments and decorations were appropriately arranged by Mary Jo Haberkamp, chairman. Finally after six weeks of bed-making, odd-jobs, and wholehearted enthusiasm on the part of all concerned, the seven pledges were formally initiated as "real Theta girls" on November 29.

Just before Christmas vacation a party was held by the Thetas for the underprivileged children of Jacksonville. Popcorn balls, apples, sacks of candy, and presents were distributed to the twenty children present, and an enjoyable time was had by all. The girls felt genuine satisfaction in planning and carrying out the party plans.

Second semester brought with it the necessity of electing a new vice-president replacing Helen Ray Hine and a new song chairman replacing Betty Miller. Nan Lund was elected to take over the job as vice-president and Valice Schnarr was chosen as the new song chairman.

The gals got into the spirit of Valentine's Day February 14 with the Theta serenade. Arrangements were made by Valice Schnarr, song chairman, and songs included such old favorites as "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and "Peg o' My Heart" as well as traditional Theta songs. The girls serenaded all the dormitories.

The U.S.S. Theta Sigma docked at Theta Hall the afternoon of Saturday, March 1, with Dian Haskell, rush captain, in charge. Two sailors met the second semester rushees as they came over the gangplank, and the gals and gobs had a fine time at "Ship Ahoy." The following Monday Theta was proud to pin pledge ribbons on Connie Eikelberger, DeLora Muir, and Evelyn Darling.

The year was climaxed with the annual Spring banquet. The new officers were installed at that time and the Theta members renewed old memories of the past year to carry with them for years to come.

ALPHA KAPPA SIGMA

Sara Adams and Betty Miller, President and Sponsor

The Alpha Kappa Sigma society was sponsored this year by Betty Miller for the first semester and by Nancy Horn for the second semester. The active staff of officers was composed of Sara Adams, president; Ann Savage, vice-president; Louise Krussell, secretary; Connie Brand, treasurer; and Beth Buckborough, recorder.

The Alpha Kappa Sigs presented as their freshman one-act play "The Fourth Mrs. Phillips," directed by Jo Hoover. For their excellence in acting members Nancy Pearson, Bonnie Potter, and Marianne Laeding were given awards.

In the spring the group spent an evening at the P.E. cabin. Another occasion on the society's social calendar was a coffee given for the members of the MacMurray faculty and alumnae of the society on April the eighteenth. In completing their spring activities the members of the Alpha Kappa Sigma society participated in chairity work for the city of Jacksonville. Many afternoons were spent in this type of work.

First row: Lois Miller, Mari Romeis, Beverly Keleher, Georgia Boxwell, Kathryn Reid, Clarissa Layman, Ruth Gordon, Linda Pearson, Anne Korsmeyer.

DELTA THETA NU

Hard work, fun, and fellowship are the memories which members of Delta Theta Nu will cherish for years to come.

The society began an active year by electing Sally Denton, president; Marion Scott, vice-president; Pat Kennedy, secretary; Becky Lemish, treasurer; and Janet French, recording secretary.

In December "The Weathervane Elopes," directed by Sally Brown, was the society's one-act play which merited the members prizes for selling the most tickets and for doing the best advertising. An informal Christmas party was held at the P.E. cabin honoring Sally Brown and the play cast. Gifts were exchanged and entertainment and refreshments completed an evening of fun.

The busy second semester included a coffee for past members on campus and the faculty, table parties in the dining hall, informal gatherings and an all-day trip to New Salem. These activities completed a full year for the members. Beverly Davis, sponsor, and the society fulfilled the purpose of the society—to strengthen fellowship in the freshman class.

EPSILON KAPPA PHI SOCIETY

The officers for the year were installed at an impressive candlelight ceremony in Main Jane lounge on November 1. Barbara Goodrick, president; Marilyn Mitchell, vice-president; Lillian Kitzelman, secretary; Gloria Rake, recorder; and Pat Johnson, treasurer, repeated their vows to serve the society to the best of their ability.

In December with Carolyn Bone as director, Epsilon Kappa Phi presented "Lavender and Red Pepper" as its entry in the freshman one-act play contest. Mary Haager received a certificate for outstanding acting.

The society had many social functions. They joined forces with Phi Tau Epsilon on Saturday, November 3, and presented entertainment in the Hub. In the spring the girls enjoyed a cabin party, and in a receiving line the officers greeted the faculty at the annual coffee held on March 7 in Main Social Room.

At the end of the school year the Epsilon Kappa Phis agreed that it had been a very successful year.

Second row: Celene Pierce, Barbara Davidson, Greta Ortgessen, Barbara Raymond, Nance Postlewait, Dorothy Hunt, Mary Ruppert, Juanita Lorance, Jo Ann Poulos, Vonna Loxley, Carolyn Burton, Ann Sherman.

KAPPA SIGMA THETA

With the formal installation of its officers Kappa Sigma Theta was launched upon an active year. On December 8, the presentation of "The Family Failing"—the society's one-act play—earned acting awards for Ann Poulos, Barbara Blodgett, Carolyn Pound, and Joyce Wells. To Ann went also the award for the best publicity and to the society went the coveted cup. Maryann Satterlee, director, joined the informal gathering in Kathryn Hall following the play.

Second semester functions of Kappa Sigma Theta included a cabin party in January, a late Friday night record program over W.M.M.C., group attendance in church, Sunday noon table parties, the annual faculty coffee supervised by Celene Pierce on April 4, and a trip to New Salem.

Under the leadership of Mary Alice Allen, Kappa's able president; Nance Postlewaite, vice-president; Dottie Hunt, treasurer; Pat Jones, secretary; and Barb Raymond, recorder; the society was guided in its motto of "Perseverance, Wisdom, and Courage." The sponsor of Kappa Sigma Theta for the year was G. R. Halliburton.

PHI KAPPA DELTA SOCIETY

Patricia Kowalski and Marilyn Goldring, Sponsor and President

Under the direction of Patricia Kowalski, sponsor, and Marilyn Goldring, president, the Phi Kappa Delta Society was hard at work by the end of October.

The freshman one-act play "The Tarnished Witherspoons" under the direction of Jane Lawrence proved to be one of the most enjoyable projects of the year. For their fine acting Natalie Wiggers and Darlene De Tuncq were awarded acting certificates.

On February 1 the members of the society found there was enough money in the budget to have an all night party at the P.E. cabin. The evening was spent in planning a program to be presented the next day when the society took over the radio station.

The faculty coffee, which was held March 14, was as enjoyable for the members as it was for the faculty. Another cabin party was held later in the spring to renew all the memories of the past year.

First row: Rae Davis, Carolyn Brewer, Marilyn Barnes, Ann Baker, Shirley Falter, Judy Frazer, Virginia Hall, Lenora Norris, Faith Lemke.

PHI TAU EPSILON

"Oh, Hail to Phi Tau Epsilon," the friendship circle song written by Martha Thompson and Bette Esser, brings back memories of a successful year of society activities.

The society play, "Uplifting Sadie," was directed by Jo Ann Venard. Under Jo's able guidance Barbara Lawson, Carolyn Brewer, and Martha Thompson received acting awards. After the performance the Phi Taus celebrated with an informal gathering in Kathryn smoker and at that time made Jo Venard an honorary member of the society.

Other activities of the group were entertainment in the Hub, W.M.M.C. radio show, coffee for faculty and alumnae of the society, cabin party, and an all-day trip to New Salem State Park and Lincoln's home.

The members of the group were guided throughout the year by Barbara Abbott, junior sponsor; Shirley Falter, president; Bette Esser, vice-president; Judy Frazer, secretary; Virginia Clark, treasurer; and Martha Thompson, recorder.

WHO'S WHO

"Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" is the name of an organization founded nineteen years ago for the purpose of creating a national recognition for deserving college students. Each year a book carrying the names and backgrounds of these students is published by Who's Who. Colleges submit nominations on a non-competitive basis and are given individual quotas determined by their total enrollment. In the fall of each year, girls from the senior class of MacMurray are elected by the legislative board of the Students Association, which represents all campus organizations. These names are then submitted to the national organization for approval and publication. Membership in the Who's Who group is determined by various qualifications including excellence in scholarship, leadership, participation in extra-curricular activities, outstanding citizenship and promise of future usefulness as a citizen.

CAP AND GOWN

Cap and Gown is an honorary group that was originated by the senior class of 1924. Each year after the last chapel service new members of Cap and Gown are chosen from the members of the junior class. Membership in this organization is limited to not more than five girls. These girls are chosen for their scholarship, for their achievement in curricular and extra-curricular activities, and for their college spirit and loyalty. The members are presented with a rose, a mortar board, and a kiss, the group's symbols of friendship, honor, and sisterhood. Last year, for the first time, the scene of the Cap and Gown recognition was the steps of Annie Merner Chapel. The 1951-52 members of Cap and Gown included Margot Keltner, president of Student Government Association; Sue LaPierre, chairman of the Christian Council; Patty Lawrence, first vice-president of Student's Association; Jean McConahay, station manager of W.M.M.C.; and Yvonne Mason, president of the senior class.
